“Christian education that is not intellectually demanding may be living on borrowed time.”
Carl F. H. Henry, Twilight of a Great Civilization

The integration of faith and learning is one of the most important and distinctive characteristics of Christian higher education. Education at a Christian university involves more than the delivery of content in the classroom in an effective way. It also involves helping students learn to see the world through the lenses of a Christian worldview. Other distinctives include providing competencies in one's chosen field of study and helping to shape character for life and vocation.

Faculties at Christian universities must be committed to loving God with their minds, the essence of what it means to be a Great Commandment university. Faculty, staff, and students must learn to think Christianly. This commitment involves integrating faith and knowledge in all disciplines.

This bibliographical tool has been compiled to help accomplish these goals. Our hope is that many will find it helpful as they seek to think holistically about various subjects from a Christian perspective.

Not every book in the bibliography is written from a faith perspective. Yet even those books help us understand the issues and challenges facing Christian institutions as they move into what many are calling a post-Christian cultural context. Our prayer is that God will use this bibliography as a tool to advance the work of Christian higher education.

Soli Deo Gloria,
