Come on down

The Student Activities Council is sponsoring “Right is the Price” on March 23 in the chapel. “Right is the Price” is based on a TV game show and is created especially for Union students. The game show starts at 8:00 p.m., but doors open at 7:15 p.m.

The prizes for this year include a digital camera, palm pilot, luggage, a five disc CD changer and the grand prize, an entertainment center complete with a TV, DVD player and surround sound.

The admission cost is $3 for Union students and $5 for non-students. You must have your Student ID to play.

March Madness

NCAA March Madness has hit again, and the Sport Marketing class along with Student Activities Council is sponsoring a campus-wide contest with prizes.

Free blank game brackets are available in the commons, student lounge, wellness and activity centers. The games can be watched throughout the day and night on a large screen TV in the student lounge.

Also, a mascot naming contest can be played on Mascot.com.

Nurses march in Nashville

Over 1500 nursing students from Tennessee were represented in Nashville on Feb. 28 for the governmental affairs briefing day “Nurses on the Move.” Thirty-six Union students represented the Jackson campus, and 32 RN-BSN represented the Germantown campus. Participants had the opportunity to attend legislative committee meetings and meet with their representatives.

Jackson BSN students highlighted the issue of seat belt safety. This was in honor of Tina Barnett, a senior classmate who was killed in an automobile accident in September. Germantown RN-BSN students raised the issue of a nursing shortage.

Union University is represented in the Tennessee Association of Student Nurses by President Kами Reiddin. Secretary Jame Leke and Treasurer Elaine Green.

Cook lectures on morality

Dr. David Cook, scholar in residence, will deliver four different messages on the topic of “Morality in a Post-Modern World.” Cook is a native of Scotland who graduated from Arizo na State and Edinburgh University with first-class honors degrees in philosophy.

He is currently a professor at University of Oxford where he teaches philosophy, ethics and theology. In addition, he teaches medical ethics at Oxford Medical School. Cook also teaches Christian ethics at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

He will be speaking on March 19 in the chapel and on four other occasions throughout the week. On March 21, Cook will continue discussion on Morality in a Post-Modern World. Cook will talk about the beginning and end of life in a post-modern world on March 22 and 23. The March 26 lecture will cover sexuality in a post-modern world.

The March 21, 22 and 26 lectures are at 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Couburn III. The March 23 lecture is from noon to 1 p.m. in Harvey Auditorium.

Kindred spirit unites team

Campbell is confident in the ability of the team in the NAIA tournament. “We are capable of beating anybody.”

“Our greatest accomplishment would be to win the national tournament with such a young team,” said senior guard April Pearson. She has seen the team pull together this semester despite the injuries. “Injuries are just a part of it. You go out and play,” she continued.

The Lady Bulldogs have gone out and played in victories this season in games such as Homcoming and the TranSouth Conference. The team crushed local rival Freed Hardeman 84-64 on March 5, bringing home their fifth TranSouth conference title. Turner was excited about the opportunity for the young players to gain victory.

The teams are recruiting new players for the upcoming season. The Lady Bulldogs will be losing two seniors, Pearson, and injured forward, Karlye Sagas. They will be recruiting five players, including Jennifer Henson. She is the sister of Jessica Henson, freshman forward and TranSouth Conference Player of the Year.

Turner will be losing two seniors, Brooks and injured guard Jon Hoover. Turner is planning to recruit four players. They will join the young players that have had the opportunity to gain experience this season.

“One of our weaknesses this year, our young team, will become one of our greatest strengths next year,” said Turner.

Turner has lost three players to foot injuries this season, and four of the five starters are freshmen or sophomores. The motto of the team has been “No excuses.”

“No long as we can play the game, there are no excuses. We control the things that we can control,” said Turner.

The Fred DeLay Gymnasium has held some memorable moments this season. A packed gym cheered the Bulldogs’ to a 65-63 overtime win against Martin Methodist during Homecoming week. Chima Abakwue, freshman guard, scored two free throws with seconds remaining on the clock to gain victory.
