

Senior Seminar Project

Ciara Pride

Introduction

- I was working on a project for the Jackson Country Club, here in Jackson, TN.
- The goal of this project is to develop a website for the real-world client with a working need.
- Their business and services will be displayed and showcased throughout the website.
- The Jackson Country Club is a place that does sports, serve food, and have sporting events. Their services and products include a court reservation system, tennis specialties and instruction, and a place for events.
- This fresh new website will be used to handle all of their users and guests alike. All users visiting the site can interact with videos, photos, and other media to really see a glimpse at what goes on at the Jackson Country Club.

Timeline

- Even before getting this project approved, I was really struggling to find a project
- Late and slow start, but eventually caught up
- Learned new things, and relearned/refreshed my mind on some old material
- Things started really picking up after last February and early March, but slowed down mid March into April
- Still scheduled on track to be done right where the project should be into the last remaining weeks of the project

Problems Encounters

While working on this project, I encountered:

- Many new challenges with developing and making new css elements for the client and later adjusting those elements successfully
- The refresher of old material did take some time, but not much
- Struggled a little with communication and information from the client
- Trying to stay on track with pacing and timing
- Sticking to a certain look and retouching with the example given
